Conv: superiority when the test wave has a different amplitude than the training waves